5

10

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Abstract

In a method and a receiver for geographical selection of digitally coded messages which are emitted from several transmitters and contain location data that are compared, in receivers, to selection data that are dependent on the respective position of the receivers, provision is made for the transmitters additionally to emit selection data which characterize their respective transmission regions and which, in the receiver, are compared to location data contained in the messages.

38563-1